The Freedom Tower Opens

One World Trade Center, also called the Freedom Tower, opened on November 12, 2014. Standing at 1,776 feet, the new tower is the tallest building in America. The building offers 3 million square feet, including office space, an observation deck and world-class restaurants.

Polar Vortex

The 2014 North American polar vortex was a weather system that caused extremely cold weather through Canada and the United States. Freezing temperatures went all the way down to Nashville, Tennessee. Several cities broke records; Chicago O'Hare International Airport set a record on January 6th with a temperature of -15°F. There were also power failures throughout Canada and United States.

On September 18th, 2014, Scotland voted "No" to independence from the United Kingdom.

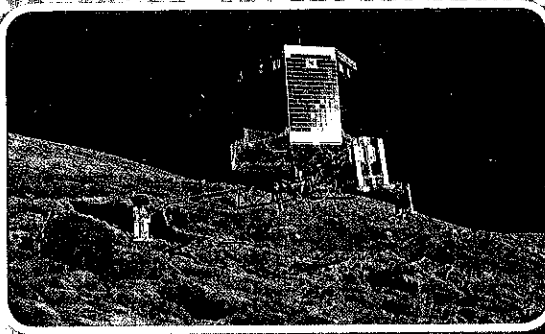

Rowe Bergdall, who was held captive by the Taliban, was released as part of a prisoner exchange for Taliban members who were being held in Guantanamo Bay.

In March, Malaysia Airlines Flight 370, vanished during a routine flight from Kuala Lumpur to Beijing.

On October 31st, Virgin's Galactic Rocket Ship, an aircraft designed for space tourists, made its first flight from Mojave Desert.

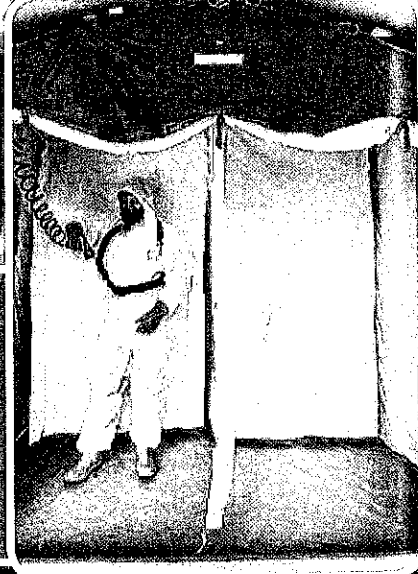

Comet Landing

In January, the European Space Agency announced the Rosetta spacecraft awakened from hibernation after a 10-year journey to rendezvous with a comet. In November, Rosetta released a mini-lander that descended to the comet's surface, marking the first time scientists landed a probe on a comet.

Ebola in America

In September, the first case of Ebola in the United States was diagnosed at Texas Presbyterian Hospital. Thomas Eric Duncan, a Liberian citizen who had recently arrived in the United States, died of complications from the disease. Within weeks, a small but growing number of Americans who had connections to Africa were diagnosed, including two Texas nurses who had treated Duncan.
